PREFACE.

THE Parish registers of Cambridge are, on the whole, unusually early and well preserved. One only of those referring to the thirteen old parishes of the town (viz. that of St Andrew the Great, commencing about 1635) starts from as late a date as the seventeenth century; and no less than ten of them commence in 1567 or earlier.

The interest which most persons will feel in the contents of these registers doubtless arises from the very large number of entries which they contain referring to University students. All contain such entries, but those which include colleges within the parish boundaries contain them by scores. This was to be expected; for with students crowded several together within a single room, and the College buildings hemmed in by the houses of a town subject to frequent outbreaks of plague and other epidemics, the death-rate must have been heavy. Moreover, where the poor lads sickened, there they were only too likely to die; for, with bad roads and tedious methods of travel they had not the opportunities of the modern student, when out of health, to leave the place and go home. Probably this facility concurs with sanitary improvements to account for the very few deaths which now take place in College.

The whole of Gonville and Caius College lies within the boundaries of St Michael's parish, as well as the larger part of Trinity College. The town population included within it has never been large. Throughout the period in question the patronage of the Church has been in the hands of Trinity College, and consequently the incumbents have been members of that foundation.

It may be added that the volume here published is from a transcript carefully made for the purpose by Mr Rogers, assistant at the University Library, who has had considerable experience in such matters, and whose skill and accuracy may be thoroughly trusted. It was collated by him with the original; in some cases where he was in doubt, or where (in respect of certain students) almost illegible names could be made out by aid of college records, he consulted with me. The original has been followed as precisely as possible in all respects, except that the baptisms, marriages, and burials have been kept separate throughout. Also, in respect mainly of the later entries (where the register was kept in a very slovenly manner, and is apparently written by a parish clerk or churchwarden) a few very minute alterations have been made, at the suggestion of a member of the Society, such as the uniform adoption of Arabic numerals for the dates, and the substitution of the for y^e, etc.

A few explanatory notes are added, but it may be pointed out that nearly all the names of members of Caius College will be found included in the published volume (University Press, 1887) of the earlier admissions at that College.

1549 Nov. 24. Fagius the reformer. His body was taken up and burnt as that of a heretic in 1557.

1561 March 23. Thomas Smith. He is entered in the University Register of Degrees as having graduated M.A. in 1565, and B.D. in 1573.

The English spelling of the name of Dr Caius is worth noting, as this was during his lifetime.

1573 Ap. 12. Packet is probably a transcriber's error for Raghet who was a fellow to about that date.

1579 Ap. 6. 'Sir' is the English rendering for Dominus, the customary term for the B.A. as distinguished from the M.A.

1588 Mar. 2. Thomas Fletcher: admitted 1585.

— Mar. 7. Mark Cheeswright: admitted 1587.

1590 Aug. 10. Gregory Pgrave: it appears, from the Grantchester register, that he was drowned in the Cam. There are several such entries in that register.

- 1601 Ap. 6. This is an interesting evidence of the practice of anatomy at such an early date:—Dr Harvey, it may be remarked, only left the College the year before. Nothing further seems known about this Mr Hutton. It may be added that, in Great St Mary's register, in which parish the University Schools were situated, there are several entries of the burial of persons who had been anatomized, of which the earliest is this:—1566, John Figgen mad Anotomy at the scholes and buried here, the 12th March.
- 1614 Jan. George Arundell: admitted that year.
- 1616 Oct. 13. Henry Hammond: admitted 1583.
- 1633 June 28. William Egger: admitted 1625.
- Dec. 3. Thomas Bailey: admitted 1629.
- Nov. 27. Robert Pickells: (I can find no such name in our lists).
- 1634 Nov. 12. Robert Jermy: admitted 1631.
- 1636 Sep. 30. This, and the next three, seem to have died of the plague.
- 1659 Robert Beverley, fellow of the College.
Probably John Boulton, fellow of the College.
(The dates about this period are very confusing.)
- 1663 Matthew Buxton: admitted 1663.

TO GENEALOGISTS AND

All others who desire to see or use every scrap of Family Information, especially that of real Marriages. Some time since I bought amongst a quantity of old parchment that was sent up to me from Cambridgeshire a portion of an OLD REGISTER BOOK that appears to be from the CHURCH OF S. MARY, WHITTLESEY in the ISLE OF ELY IN CAMBRIDGESHIRE: from my knowledge of the Vital Importance of the use of Original Registers, especially those of Marriages during the troublesome times of the Commonwealth, I have ventured to print off in a handy form for reference all that I can well make out, I did hope to have made out 300 as I stated in my Catalogue, but I cannot read more than 222 with certainty, those I sincerely hope will be found useful in completing some pedigrees that otherwise would not be so. I shall present the original back, so that certified copies can be got from the minister, when wanted, by others, as by James Coleman, 9, Tottenham Terrace, White Hart Lane, Tottenham, near London, N.

THE PERILS OF DOING GOOD.

Copy of a Post Card sent to me, 27th Jany., 1880.

OLD PARISH REGISTERS. DEAR SIR.—How on Earth can you expect Ladies and Gentlemen to subscribe for this little prize without the least notice whether there is anything of interest in the Register, or, even what parish it belongs to? If you think it worth while to send me these particulars, I will consider whether to subscribe! but I warn you that I shall write instantly to the Incumbent of the parish and let him know that the Book is in your hands.—(I Bear and Forbear).
